

Ballet Goes To Dinner

Ballet was the talk of the buffet tables at Victoria League House last night. The Elizabethan group invited dancers and orchestra of the Borovansky Ballet to meet club members at dinner.

Among them were Misses Barbara Langley, in a slim fitting mustard sheath dress, Lexi Kunze and Mr. H. Algeranoff.

Also from the company, Miss Jan Topham, smart in a sand wool suit, talked with Mr. Bill Akers and Mr. John Della.

Orchestra members, Misses Doreen Price and Elizabeth Dawkins, who was in a red and white tartan sheath dress, were in a group with dancer Miss Beatrix Ryan.

Convener Mrs. Colin Grosser had to make an eleventh hour change of guest speaker, from Mr. G. Shedley to Mr. Peter Russell, a club member. He gave an illustrated talk on his trip to Hong-kong.

Recent arrivals from England, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. H. Collyns, Mrs. Anna Clark, Mr. Roy White and Mr. Charles Shaw were also special guests at the dinner. Mr. White, who came from Cambridge, is now a physics demonstrator at the university.

Wearing carbon blue wool, Mrs. Grosser received the guests with Miss Nancy Gilbert, in coral pink mohair. Helping Mrs. Grosser with the dinner were Mrs. Gordon Gray, Misses M. Bray, N. Swincer, and Jean Story. Group chairman (Mrs. R. C. Hare), who wore a navy blue suit, took her mother, Mrs. M. A. Busch to the dinner.

Among the member guests were Misses Jean Dent, who helped pin name tags on guests, Kathleen Short, Erica Cox, Betty and Margaret Sandford, Messrs. Robert Longbottom and Dudley Campbell Smith.

Borovansky ballet and orchestra members, Mr. William Gill and Miss Elizabeth Dawkins, were at the Elizabethan group's buffet dinner last night.

Note: In the fourth paragraph, it says Elizabeth Dawkins (Liz) was in a red and white tartan sheath dress. However, she was wearing her tartan two-piece suit.
